3. Justification and Learning Objectives for the Course. (Indicate whether required or elective, and whether it meets University Writing, and/or Language requirements) [Use as much space as necessary]

This is an elective course for the Bachelor of Science program in Business and for the minor in Economics. An understanding of international trade and trade policy is essential for students of business and economics. This course will provide business and economics students with the knowledge, skills, and abilities to understand why countries trade, the distributional consequences of trade, and the politics of trade policy. It investigates the conduct of commercial policy, regional economic integration, and the role of the WTO in international trade.

Learning Objectives:
Students who successfully complete this course will be able to:
• evaluate various trade theories and determine the gains from trade and investment
• predict the pattern of trade between countries
• distinguish between various trade policy instruments and their economic impact
• determine the effect of international factor movements
• describe the factors leading to trade policy formation
• evaluate the costs and benefits of alternative trade and industrial policies
